Health & Safety Policy for Field Trials

General Policy: To provide adequate awareness of the health and safety risks involved in our activities. Those attending a field trial should be aware of the nature of the activity and informed about any potential hazards.

Responsibilities: Overall responsibility for health and safety is that of the Field Trial Committee and Officers of The Yellow Labrador Club. All those involved with the trial should be responsible for taking care of the health and safety of themselves and others, and to follow instructions with regard to procedures and safety.

Pre-Field Trial Briefing: The Chief Steward will be responsible for safety, supervision and discipline at the Field Trial, and will outline the risks involved before the commencement of the trial. ONCE THE TRIAL HAS STARTED NO ONE WILL BE ALLOWED TO LEAVE WITHOUT FIRST NOTIFYING THE CHIEF STEWARD.

It is expected that everyone present will comply with the highest standards of safety and sportsmanship – with respect to quarry, wildlife and the countryside in general.

The Red Flag: This indicates the safe location of spectators and competitors not in the line; and Guns should be aware of the location of the flag.

Dogs: Handlers are responsible for the control of their dogs and ensuring they do not cause injury or accidents.

Topography: The ground used for our Trials is varied and challenging. Heather moorland, ditches, fences, and streams may have to be negotiated. The ground is often rugged and at times walking may be difficult. It is recommended that suitable footwear is worn and appropriate clothing according to the shooting custom. Field Trials take place in all kinds of weather and participants should be dressed appropriately for the conditions. Also a REASONABLE LEVEL OF FITNESS IS REQUIRED. The Yellow Labrador Club cannot accept responsibility for injury, loss or damage to person or property however occasioned
